

CSG AND THE HEALTH OF THE NSW PUBLIC ..SUBMISSION.

Carolyn J. to: csg.review

22/04/2013 12:48 PM

History:

This message has been replied to and forwarded.

Dear Sirs,

The intense stress caused by this Industry trying to get a foothold in Northern NSW must have taken a toll on tens of thousands of us. And that is just the initial health impact upon a society.

We were all very aware of the health problems, pollution of water and land being experienced at the Tara/Chinchilla gas field, which was being, and is STILL being, almost totally ignored by the previous Qld State Govt and the current one.

That problems associated with gas drilling were coming in daily from the USA, raised alarm, but when we all started to see what was happening right here in Australia and the destruction of peoples lives there was no way we were going to allow this into our Community.

You may be gathering scientific data etc, but you are never going to be able to say in your Report that CSG mining is safe.

The fact that billions of dollars are being invested in Gladstone for gas export processing is going to tinge everything with a rosy glow, as we all know how loud billions of dollars can shout, nay SCREAM, amongst the halls of power.

But, regardless of your findings, we will not be treated like the new indigenous and have our lands and lives trampled in the name of some largely foreign-owned plunderers..

Im sure there is massive pressure on you to give a favourable report, but from someone who has spent almost every early morning for the past 3 years reading every single article/report etc regarding CSG mining, the process of fracking and the creative disposal of their waste water that I can lay my hands on, I can say this to you with confidence...

You can NEVER say it is safe because it just isnt.

Yours faithfully,
Carolyn Eddy
Yamba, NSW 2464

