Hi

I live in Gloucester, a small community set to be directly affected by CSG mining. My main concern is for the environment. This is a beautiful part of the world, we moved to Gloucester 23 years ago purely for the clean, quiet, scenic environment to be found here. After moving we also found a wonderful community, this was a bonus. There seems to be mounting evidence to show that Gloucester is unsuitable for this type of mining, and yet it hasn't been stopped. It's OK for these companies and the government. If it all goes awry they can apologise and move on to their next project but we are left with an area and community decimated by their failed endeavour. Please see that these companies complete rigid testing to ensure that our beautiful valley and river systems remain unscathed by their activities.

Regards
