

CSG is suicide!

Steve Turnock to: csg.review@chiefscientist.nsw.gov.au

26/04/2013 11:08 AM

History:

This message has been replied to and forwarded.

To whom it may concern,

Everything I have seen or read about the process of fracking seems to be nothing short of environmental suicide. By injecting large quantities of heinous chemicals into the earth for the short-term goal of extracting fossil fuels, we are simply killing ourselves by poisoning our most fundamental resources. At the very least, the processes involved in CSG extraction are surely dangerous enough to warrant extensive testing to determine both the immediate and long-term health implications for flora and fauna. We simply cannot sit by while large multi-nationals shmooze our politicians and quietly destroy all of our natural ecosystems.

Would you drink groundwater collected within 2km of a CSG mine?

Steve Turnock

Greentrain Event Services

0421 850 748