Dear Sir

Please do not rush into decisions under political or economic pressure.

independent reports have shown adverse impacts in the vicinity of coal seam gas projects. They may or may not be correct, but it is high time government also conduct these studies before negating these reports. It is wrong to make further decisions on coal seam gas projects without undertaking and reviewing the whole spectrum of easily obtainable data, ie, go to a site and take measurements.

We cannot allow accidents or unintentional bad consequences to affect our water supply and our clean air. Such awful incidents are happening in properties around coal seam projects.

Regards

Tang
